DRUG ROUNDUP NETS 19 ARRESTS

Neighbors in Warsaw Place Apartments in Dry Ridge were surprised to find five police cars sitting in their parking lot when word spread that something was taking place on May 7.

Officers scouted the perimeter of the building while other officers took a metal ramming tool and entered the apartment of Jimmie Green, 62, of Dry Ridge, was charged with two counts of trafficking in a controlled substance (opiates) in the first degree, possession of a controlled substance first degree (opiates), two counts of possession of a controlled substance third degree and possession of drug paraphernalia from items located at the residence.

Police also removed two assault weapons from Green's apartment.

Green was one of 19 men and women got an early wake up call last week when the Kentucky State Police with the help of local law enforcement conducted a drug round up.

The roundup began around 5:30 a.m. as officers from KSP, the Grant County Sheriff's Office and Williamstown Police worked in teams to serve the arrest warrants.

"Heroin has made a real big comeback. It seems to be the drug of choice," said David Jones, public affairs officer for KSP Post 6 in Dry Ridge. "We take all tips seriously and do send units to check them out."

The roundup was the result of a lengthy investigation by KSP detectives over several months. Sealed indictments were issued last month by a Grant County grand jury.

Inmate death brings lawsuit

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

The estate of an inmate who ultimately died after suffering medical issues at the Grant County Detention Center has filed a wrongful death lawsuit.

Mark Burden filed the lawsuit in federal court in Covington as representative of the estate of Danny Ray Burden.

The allegations include violation of civil rights, negligence, infliction of emotional distress, wrongful death and conspiracy.

The many defendants include Jailer Terry Peeples, multiple jail employees, an inmate trustee and employees of Advanced Correctional Healthcare.

As I look back on my eight-year tenure as Kentucky's Auditor of Public Accounts, it is my hope that the legacy of those years lies not in the series of controversial audit results we released, but in a heightened sense of accountability on the part of those who hold the public's trust across the commonwealth.

On Tuesday, May 20th you will be putting your trust into a candidate for Grant County Clerk and I ask that you consider Tabatha Clemons. During her eight years in county government, she has brought in over $350,000 to save your tax dollars by finding partnership funds and successfully receiving grants. Tabatha is honest and accountable. She has not only proven her leadership in Grant County but throughout the Commonwealth. She has been elected to the Kentucky Recreation and Park Society seven years and served two terms as President. Tabatha's qualifications and integrity are a winning combination. I am proud to endorse Tabatha Clemons for Grant County Clerk and ask that you vote Clemons for Clerk on Tuesday, May 20th.

Murder victim's family members say 'justice wasn't served'

By Kristina Belcher
The State Journal

The temperature was as hot as the tempers in Franklin Circuit Court Monday after the jury handed down its verdict in the trial for Joshua Hammond — one of three men accused of robbing and killing 30-year-old Charles Monroe in May 2012.

Hammond, 33, of Corinth and James Simons, 37, and David Bruce II, 46, allegedly planned to rob Monroe after buying prescription drugs from him May 5, 2012 in the Frankfort Wal-Mart parking lot. They allegedly beat and strangled Monroe to death inside Hammond's truck. His body was found May 6, 2012, dumped on the side of Interstate

A broken air conditioning unit had the courthouse nearing 80 degrees for much of the day leading up to the jury's nearly three-hour-long deliberation.

Monroe's family members hugged and clapped as the judge read off guilty verdicts on charges of first-degree robbery, first-degree assault and tampering with physical evidence.

But moods turned when the murder charge was amended down to reckless homicide.

"Justice wasn't served," said Monroe's brother, Larry Monroe.

The two sides agreed on a recommended sentence totaling 25 years, but family members said that's just not enough.

"My brother got a life sentence," Larry Monroe said, "six feet under."

What family members saw as a disappointment, Commonwealth's Attorney Larry Cleveland saw as a victory.

"I'm very, very satisfied with the jury's verdict," Cleveland said. "It was really reasonable with respect to punishment."

Defense attorney Guthrie True said Hammond ended up with a sentence equivalent to the best plea agreement he was offered by prosecutors, meaning that going to trial didn't make him come out any worse.

"Obviously you're always disappointed. It's just a very, very difficult case," True said. "... You can't change the facts in this business."

The defense didn't call any witnesses Monday, but Cleveland and True spent a combined two hours, 45 minutes on their closing statements.

True touched on a number of points that he told jurors constituted "reasonable doubt" — mainly the unreliability of witnesses.

"We don't know what happened out at that roadside on May 5, 2012, because we can't believe those two guys," True said of Hammond's co-defendants, James Simons and David Bruce.

Both are currently serving time in prison after pleading guilty to reduced charges.

"If you can't say, 'I know what happened out there,'" True said, "then you have a reasonable doubt in this case."

"What happened is not what Mr. True believes," Cleveland told jurors. "It's what the evidence shows you."

Cleveland went over the evidence again, disputing True's "reasonable doubt" theories.

"I'm not here to spin this. I'm not here to BS you," Cleveland said. "We're here to tell you what happened."

With a 25-year sentence, Hammond would be eligible for parole after 17 1/2 years.

He will remain in custody pending final sentencing.

INMATE : death prompts lawsuit

Burden was sentenced to serve his jail sentence at the Grant County Detention Center March 27, 2013.

He arrived at the jail at 12:07 p.m. and was assessed by Nurse Celeste Kiefner, who was informed by Burden that he was an insulin dependent diabetic and suffered from Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease (COPD) and anxiety/panic attacks.

All three illnesses had physician-prescribed medications for treatment and control.

The nurse conducted a blood sugar test on Burden in which his blood sugar level was 336 mg/dL.

"At this point, defendants knew or should have known, if they had been properly trained, supervised, equipped, etc., that Danny Ray Burden needed emergency medical attention or other reasonable medical treatment, evaluation, monitoring or care," the lawsuit states.

The nurse contacted Dr. Nadir Al-Shami, who works for Advanced Correctional Healthcare, the company that provides medical service for the jail, to discuss Burden's blood sugar level.

The doctor ordered the nurse to administer insulin, 20 units in the morning and 15 units at night, however no insulin was immediately provided to Burden, according to the lawsuit.

At 12:45 p.m., Burden was asked a series of questions during his booking process in which he "was increasingly lethargic to the point of nodding off and becoming incoherent and inconsistent with his answers," the lawsuit states.

By around 2 p.m., Burden was allegedly unable to remain alert and coherent for an extended period of time and he requested an insulin shot from the chief warrant officer.

The insulin was not provided and, shortly thereafter, Burden reportedly began coughing profusely, leading a deputy jailer to stop the booking process and advise medical staff that Burden had requested emergency medical attention.

The nurse arrived at 2:02 p.m. and assessed that Burden's blood oxygen level was 93 percent, his blood pressure was 131/84, his heart rate was 82 beats per minute and he had 16 breaths per minute.

Despite the medical assessment, the lawsuit states the nurse cleared Burden to continue the booking process.

However, the booking process was suspended at 2:14 p.m., according to the lawsuit, as Burden was unable to stay awake.

The chief warrant officer placed the inmate in a cell on detox watch.

A deputy jailer and an inmate trustee were assigned to observe Burden while in a cell on detox watch.

Later, Burden was relocated to another cell where he allegedly was not directly evaluated or supervised.

Two inmate trustees discovered Burden unconscious around 3:10 p.m.

They were unable to wake him.

Several jail employees attempted to wake Burden by calling his name, knocking on the cell door and banging keys on the sink, according to the lawsuit.

Medical assistance from the jail medical staff on duty was called for to assist Burden.

Smelling salts were unsuccessfully used to awaken Burden.

A Code Blue was called at 3:13 p.m., and shortly thereafter, resuscitation efforts began and 911 was called.

Dry Ridge EMS found Burden in asystole rhythm and after a couple minutes of CPR, medical personnel found sinus tachycardia symptoms.

Burden was transported to St. Elizabeth Edge-wood Short Term Hospital Care, where he arrived at 3:46 p.m. and was admitted for altered mental status and cardiac arrest.

Burden was admitted into St. Elizabeth Edge-wood later that day and remained there until he was admitted on April 3, 2013, to the Edgewood Hospice/Medical Facility.

Burden died the following day.

The estate is seeking judgement for compensatory and punitive damages.

VIEWPOINT

OUR OPINION

Help community garden grow

In 2010, one of the best kept secrets in Grant County blossomed.

The Grant County Distribution Garden on Hopperton Lane in Dry Ridge was created as a way to benefit seniors and families in need.

The concept is simple. Community organizations and volunteers help harvest, water, plant and maintain a garden truly meant to feed the community.

Hard work and sweat bring everything from tomatoes and peppers to cucumbers to squash.

While the garden is beyond beneficial it would not be a success without the volunteers who run it.

Volunteers can adopt a row of vegetables or help out occasionally from planting in May to cleanup in September.

Organizers are hoping community groups will adopt one harvest a month.

The organization would bring their own volunteers to harvest the produce, which they will take with them to distribute.

Planting dates for the garden are set for 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. May 16 and May 17, with rain dates of May 23 and May 24.

Three satellite gardens will also be tended these year at Helton Heights and Parkview Manor in Williamstown and Meadowview in Dry Ridge.

Plants and seeds will also be provided to three local daycares who will need assistance getting the soil ready for planting.

As you can see from the youngest in the community to the eldest, this program serves all in Grant County.

Although planting dates for the satellite gardens have not been set yet, updates will be posted on the garden's Facebook page at www.facebook.com/distributiongarden.

While volunteer work has been essential to make the garden sustainable, the community has given back financially as well.

Sharon Tepe, a master gardener who helps with the garden, said the gardens would not exist without grants from the Grant County Soil Conservation, Williamstown Kiwanis and the Presbyterian Hunger Program.

It shows once again how collaboration in a community can only yield positive results.

Whether it is picking up a shovel, grabbing veggies from a vine or getting your hands dirty, take time out to help the distribution garden grow.

A small amount of time and some sweat will help feed the needy in this county.

And that's something everyone can and should get behind.

Anyone interested in volunteering, can call 823-0858 or e-mail sharon.tepe@fuse.net.

PERSONALLY SPEAKING

Running race reminder of what's important

Well, I survived and that's good enough for me.

For the second time in four years I completed a 5K race when I participated in the annual Derby Dash in Williamstown.

The first time I tried my luck in the more than three mile run was in 2010.

Back then, with absolutely no training or practice, I took to the road in downtown Williamstown confident that I could finish with no issues whatsoever.

While I did beat my personal goal of crossing the finish line in less than 30 minutes by about two minutes, I truly felt like I would collapse at the end.

Since it was my first-ever race I started out fast and thought I would coast the whole way.

I am proud that I never stopped once or even walked during my first 5K, but with each passing second I got progressively slower.

Watching my then-2-year-old son Austin wait for me with a banana at the end was awesome, despite that I was positive that banana would immediately come back up if I ate it.

I definitely was not in good shape back then.

I had gained weight over the years and outside of a weekly soccer game, the only exercise I got was reaching for the remote control.

However, participating in that race and proving to myself I could finish it, reinvigorated me and motivated me to want to get healthier, exercise more and run more 5Ks.

I even wrote a column about wanting a treadmill so I could run while watching TV since inclement weather and boredom made running outside a chore.

After reading the column, my parents graciously bought me that treadmill, wanting me to have a long, happy life with my two children and amazing wife.

Flash-forward to today.

Dust gathers on that treadmill that sits downstairs within view of the TV I watch while comfortably lying on the couch.

Another 5K race?

Bryan
MARSHALL

Staff Writer

Like I said, it was four years before I strapped on the running shoes again in anticipation of actually using them for their intended purpose.

Now, I can truthfully say that I am in slightly worse shape than I was four years ago as well.

The weight is up a little more, the shape of my stomach is a little more round and running is about the last thing on my to-do-list.

In preparation for this year's Derby Dash, I did run one time before the race.

I thought a nice leisurely stroll around my neighborhood would do me some good.

Instead what it did was give me a glimpse into the horrors that await.

I would run for about 30 seconds to a minute before I would force myself to slow down to a halt before walking a couple more minutes.

This process repeated itself for the next 45 minutes.

I thought I was in for some major trouble when race day came.

Having never ran a race before, my wife decided she would join me this year.

OK, I begged her and she agreed.

My thinking was we could stay together as one showing our love for each other and at the same time allowing me to have someone to push me and not let me collapse.

We set an initial goal of 45 minutes.

Having ran my last 5K in 28 minutes, I thought that goal was ridiculous.

So, we recalculated to a 40-minute goal.

It seemed reachable without having to overdo it.

When the race began my competitive spirit took over and I ran my longest stretch without walking.

With my wife by my side, I was sure we were going to demolish the record.

Awhile later, I was feeling pretty good with the belief we were about half way through the race.

Then, out of the corner of my eye, I saw something I simply could not believe.

The one mile marker!!!

We were only one-third of the way complete.

I felt like I had been punched in the stomach.

However, the rest of the way, through slopes and a couple hills, we just ran when we could and walked when we had to.

By the time we could see the finish line from afar, we decided to push it with a sprint (which at that point was more like a gallop) to the finish.

We finished in just over 37 minutes, besting our goal by nearly three minutes.

Sure, there was some leg pain and my wife's feet hurt for several days.

But, I did not feel like I was going to die.

Once again, just like four years ago, the race reenergized me and has me wanting to get healthier.

I would love to run another 5K or even several more.

After doing some research, I discovered there is even one that goes by my house in August.

Later in October, there will be an Explore the Mud obstacle course/5K in Grant County that sounds like a blast.

For more information, go to www.grantcountyparks.org.

I hope that this time I follow through on these urges because as my children grow older, the more it hits me that I want to be here for when they graduate, when they get married and when they have their own kids.

It's in my hands now.

I have to push myself to the finish line.

A WORD FROM OUR READERS...

Helping Hands still filling community need

I have been a subscriber to your newspaper since I moved here in 1984.

When I first started working at Helping Hands in 2007, we were given space in large type so that the elderly could keep up with our current events.

Since the makeover of Barnes Road has made it harder to find us, we are still in front of the Grant County Animal Shelter, next to the ball fields and just behind the Grant County Detention Center.

Our phone number is still 859-823-0286 and we are still open 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. every Tuesday and 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Thursday except the third Thursday of each month, when we set up at Sherman Full Gospel Church, to give out food to anyone needing it in the county.

Since January we started distributing government commodities on the second Wednesday of each month. This is primarily for low income and retired people of Grant County. For some this is one of their main sources of food, another is the food give away at Sherman Full Gospel Church on U.S. 25 on the third Thursday of the month.

We receive the quantities, from the government commodities, based on the expectation of the number of people who will show up. We have volunteers ready to help carry the food to their cars, just like every day.

Since the workers are all volunteers, we have no paid people. The Thrift Store on Main Street is also all volunteers.

There is a misconception that the Thrift Store is a separate part or has no connection with Helping Hands. Nothing could be farther from the truth. The Thrift Store and private donations are our only source of income.

Recently, you recognized the volunteers in the county but nothing recognized the many volunteers from H.O.P.E, Helping Hands and the many food pantries in the various churches, that feed the needy of the county.

In some cases these sources are the only means of getting food, some of our neighbors have.

I am writing this in hope that we can get the word out to the public. We still have clothing and emergency food available at Helping Hands on Tuesdays and Thursdays mornings when we are open.

DOWN AND DIRTY

Plant propagation from softwood cuttings

The most common form of plant propagation is digging and dividing which is frequently done in early spring before new growth or in the fall before plants go dormant. Digging and dividing is great for herbaceous plants but those plants that are considered woody ornamentals do not divide as easily with a spade. In this case we can look to the technique of rooting out softwood cuttings from the mother plant. Greenhouses have stock plants that they maintain from year to year to provide the cuttings for each year’s new generation. We can do this at home on a smaller scale with just a few tools. Grab a pair of sharp pruners, some light soilless potting mixture (like peat and perlite), some small three-inch pots, a few plastic baggies, Popsicle sticks and some rooting hormone (like Rootone). Any variation on the theme will work we just want to be able to create mini greenhouses for each cutting once we prepared them. June is a good time of the year to propagate by cutting those plants that root out well from ripened soft wood. This soft wood is essentially new, succulent growth that has been allowed to “ripen” but not harden off totally. Think about the new growth of a hydrangea in June: not too soft and not too hard. In fact, I think hydrangeas are one of the easiest to propagate through cuttings and this is what I’ll be doing this year. Give it a try.

Take about a three to four-inch stocky cutting from the tip of a stem. Strip the leaves from the stem except for the top two (if they are really large you can trim them up with scissors to balance the top to the bottom).

Jeneen WICHE
Weekend Gardener

Dip the stem into a little bowl of rooting hormone and then into your prepared pots filled with peat and perlite (I use a pencil to prepare the little hole and I moisten the peat prior to sticking the cuttings in). Craft a little greenhouse with your Popsicle stick and baggy (poke a couple of holes in your baggy for a little air circulation). Layering brambles to root out Keep the soil moist, not soggy, using a spray bottle while the cutting is under plastic until your cutting roots out.

Once rooted you can remove the greenhouse but continue to use a spray bottle to mist your plants. Their roots are still developing so some mist on the foliage provides necessary moisture. Cuttings generally root out better under mist so dampen the soil during preparation but follow up with a mist routine until you take the greenhouse baggy off. Let them mature somewhere in the shade outside and begin to water them as needed (which will likely be often). They will appreciate the humidity of our summers more than the cool and dry conditions of an air-conditioned house so I prefer to move them outdoors in the shade. As the summer progresses your hydrangea cuttings will mature enough to be planted in the garden by fall.

Some plants root out better as hard wood cuttings so you would wait until late summer to propagate. Hardwood cuttings can be rooted out in a prepared bed (sandy soil and some kind of cold frame rigged up are good here) outside and good candidates include shrubby plants like roses (especially the old-fashioned ones), boxwood, privet and yew. You can also try the technique of layering branches, stems or runners to the soil in order to root out while they are still attached to the plant. Plants that naturally sucker are good candidates for layering including brambles, lilacs, forsythia, calycanthus, itea and fothergilla. Sometimes laying happens by accident, a stem will sag to the ground, get covered in a little soil and root out by the end of the season: this is what we want to mimic. You can use a sod staple, brick or other heavy item to hold the branch down until the soil covered part roots out and you cut it away from the mother plant.

FAITH & VALUES

RELIGIOUS VIEWS

Joy of a risen savior

Some folks are hard of hearing. I don't mean that they are in need of a hearing aid (what? What was that? Speak up!) but rather that they have a hard time hearing the truth. For some, the reasons are plain. They don't want to hear. Like Jesus told the religious leaders of His day that they couldn't hear the truth because they had no room for the truth. For others, the reasons are deeper. It goes back to some prejudice, some pain, or some type of anger that keeps them from hearing what God is saying.

Remember the story of Mary Magdalene? I have often wondered why it took so long for her to recognize Jesus after the resurrection. Now the most common explanations are that Jesus' appearance was different, that she was looking for a "dead" Jesus and not One who was alive; and all of these are good reasons. But I think there is another reason to go along with these. Look in the account given in John 20 how many times Mary says the phrase "They have taken His body". She says this when she first realizes the body is not there. She says it again after she sees two angels at the tomb where Jesus' body was supposed to be. Who was the "They"? My guess is that it was the same people who had killed Him.

Mary loved Jesus and had watched the unthinkable happen. She had watched Jesus be beaten, humiliated, spit upon and crucified. She knew it was unfair but she was helpless to stop it. Now, if you watched something like that happen to someone you loved, how would you feel about "They"? "They" would be capable of just about any evil possible.

Let me ask you, who is the "They" in your life? The ones you blame for the troubles in your life? Who are the ones that you hold responsible for your crushed dreams, your heartaches and your misery? And can your hatred for "They" be keeping you from seeing what God is doing?

Let me give you an example. Recently we took a trip with the fifth graders from Williamstown Elementary to Washington D.C. and one of the highlights of the trip was when we were at the Marine Memorial and a bus load of World War II Veterans arrived. As they were coming to the monument, our kids formed a line on both sides of the sidewalk and applauded the veterans as they came up the path. It was touching and moving. Then the man who was with the veteran group came through the line and asked where we were from. We said, "Williamstown". And this is where it got ugly. He said, "Well, I am the number 2 Connecticut fan in the world. Go Huskies!"

This man went from hero to zero in no time! Now, my Wildcat fandom instantly saw him as Satan incarnate and deserving of being tarred and feathered and hung from a flag pole somewhere. Now, if I had stopped with that I would have missed what a great guy he is. This man had served 12 years in the Army, and then on a trip to Washington D.C. he noticed that the monuments had everything except for one thing...Veterans. So he formed a non-profit group that helps take veterans at no cost to Washington D.C. to see these memorials. He was a great guy...though a part of me still thinks he needs to be tarred and feathered (oh, those pesky Huskies!)

Who is your "They"? Maybe it was a former pastor who lied to you and now you have trust issues with the church. Maybe it was a parent who was so legalistic that they turned you off from anything with the faith. Maybe it was someone in the church who turned out to be such a hypocrite that you swore that you would never darken the door to a church again. "They" are keeping you from seeing what God is doing here and now. Mary had a hard time seeing the joy of the resurrection because she was still so angry and hurt by the events of the cross. You may have been hurt, you may be angry...but it is time to let that go so that you can see the joy of a risen Savior right in front of you calling your name.

WES fifth graders make memories during D.C. trip

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

It may have only been four days, but for some Williamstown Elementary fifth graders Washington D.C. was a trip they will remember for the rest of their lives.

Thirty-nine students left April 23 to see monuments, landmarks and sites they had only read about in their history books.

Fifth grade teacher Deanna Wynn described the trip as a great learning experience for the students.

“Words cannot describe the feeling to watch the students see these things,” she said. “Watching the students make the connection of what they have learned in class — the branches of government, bills becoming a law, how the government runs, the presidents and what they have provided for the country — had a huge impact on kids. I think they could relate to the content and understand it better.”

The itinerary included seeing the outside of the White House, visiting the House of Representatives inside the Capitol, stopping at Ford’s Theatre and many more historic sites come to life.

Fifth grader Sophia McKenney said she was most excited to see the National Archives.

“Oh my gosh, I can’t believe that it’s actually standing anymore,” she said about seeing the Declaration of Independence.

However, the fourth and final day featured arguably the two highlights of the trip.

The students went to the Arlington National Cemetery to witness a wreath being laid at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

Fifth grader Cameron Morgan was one of the students chosen to help place the wreath.

“I was just honored,” he said. “It was a little emotional because I know people in my family who have been in wars.”

In an twist of fate, the soldier who took part in the wreath-laying ceremony with the students was not only aware of Williamstown, Kentucky, but was a Grant County High School graduate from Dry Ridge.

“Preparing the kids and going over with them what they had to do, they were so nervous,” Wynn said about the ceremony. “Some of them were even shaking when trying to remember their cues and things that they needed to do. I just told them that would do great and answered any questions that they had. It was a proud moment though, as a teacher, standing back and watching your students partake in such an honorable event.”

On the final day, the students were also scheduled to briefly stop at the Iwo Jima Memorial.

What was supposed to be a 15-minute pitstop turned into more than an hour at the memorial when several bus loads of veterans, some in wheelchairs, pulled up at the site.

The students quickly realized who the visitors were and what they had done for their country.

“When they were leaving I got to shake their

WES students applaud and shake the hand of a veteran. Photos submitted hands,” said fifth grader Kairos Caldwell. “I kept on saying, ‘Thank you.’ It was great to see them.”

McKenney agreed.

“I started crying after awhile,” she said. “I realized they were the ones who fought for us. I felt good that they were still alive.”

The students and parents made a welcome tunnel for the veterans and clapped and thanked them as they approached the memorial.

The experience was so beautiful, it brought goosebumps, said Wynn.

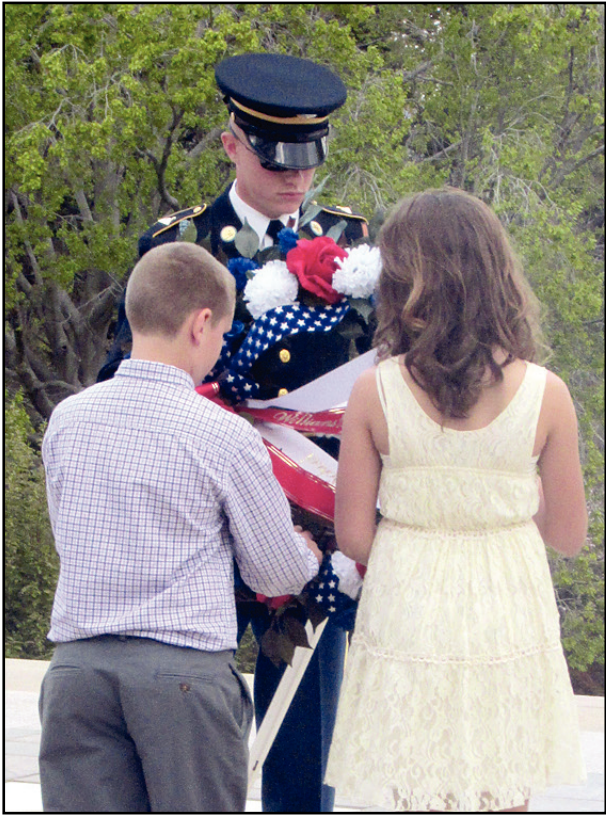

“You could see the men who were in wheelchairs and some looked so sad, their face would light up and their chest would rise,” she said. “They were proud to be a veteran. There were men who would smile and wave. There were men who would take a bow... I was standing and cheering with the students and one veteran walked up to almost child that he could see. The children would say ‘Thank you’ and he would say, ‘Don’t thank me, I did it for you.’”

When the cheering stopped, the veterans group lined up to take a picture in front of the monument.

They asked the Williamstown students to join them.

“It will be something I will never forget and the majority of the students will tell you that this moment was their favorite moment,” Wynn said. “What was supposed to be a 15-minute trip, ended up being an hour and 15 minute trip and it was worth every minute.”

Students place a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

CONSTABLE, 3RD DISTRICT - JOHN CHILDERS & WILLIAM MICHAEL ROGERS

PLEASE VOTE ON TUESDAY, MAY 20
TO CHOOSE YOUR REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES FOR THE
GENERAL COUNTY-WIDE ELECTIONS
THIS NOVEMBER!

Paid for by the GRANT COUNTY REPUBLICAN PARTY, PAMELA MANN, CHAIR

CANDIDATE ANNOUNCEMENT!

Hello Grant County Citizens,
It is election year and I have decided to run for the Office of Jailer in Grant County. I have been a long time resident of Grant County and I currently live in Crittenden with my wife Debbie and our two sons Christian and Caleb. I was raised on a farm on Lemon Northcutt Road. As a young boy I became one of Grant County's hard working tobacco farmers and attended Grant County High School and graduating from there in 1984.

As that young boy, law enforcement has always been my desire. I am a second generation law enforcement officer following my father's footsteps who retired from the Kentucky State Police in 1986. I started my career at the Kenton County Detention Center as a Deputy Jailer. I then accepted a position from Sheriff Simon Leis of the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office in Cincinnati, Ohio. It was there that I attended and successfully completed the sheriff's corrections training academy. I was very excited to be employed by Ohio's top rated detention center, housing over 2000 inmates. In 1992 I accepted a position with the Williamstown Police Department. I wanted to be here in my home community because Grant County was my home and where I loved to be. I started as a patrolman working nights answering emergency calls for service for the citizen of Williamstown. In 1996 I started the Williamstown Lake Patrol and worked every weekend and holiday in an attempt to make the county's most wonderful form of recreation safe. As I moved up in rank I moved to day shift. I served as Williamstown's Assistant Chief of Police and I then retired from that position in 2012. Throughout my career I have obtained 1500+ hours of training from the Kentucky Jailer's Association, Hamilton County Sheriff's Office, and Department of Criminal Justice Training. I am a Certified Firearms Instructor, Advanced Hostage Negotiator, Internal Affairs Investigator, Domestic Violence/Child Sexual Assault Investigator just to name a few. I have been a long time member of the Kentucky Peace Officer's Association, Kentucky Fraternal Order of Police and a past member of the Kentucky Association of Chief's of Police. I was always involved in the annual Shop with a Cop program that made it possible for Grant County's less fortunate children to have a Christmas! During that 20 years period as an officer for our county's seat, I strived and worked hard to take care of you! It was my duty, it was what I felt inside! I now want to do that again! I am embarking on a new adventure in seeking the position of Jailer. I want to restore the respect, accountability and service of our detention facility. I know that with my background I am the most qualified candidate for this position.

When elected Jailer I will:

- ✓ Work to maintain a safe and secure detention facility.
- ✓ Work to stop unnecessary law suits against our county.
- ✓ Ensure that qualified applicants are hired and train them to be respectable, responsible, and dedicated employees.
- ✓ Enhance training for all employees.
- ✓ Develop and maintain a relationship with Kentucky Department of Corrections and Federal Department of Corrections.
- ✓ Develop practices to increase revenue.
- ✓ Develop practices to decrease unnecessary spending.
- ✓ Work to provide a more suitable and nutritious meal.
- ✓ Work to provide a more sanitary living condition.
- ✓ I WILL MAKE MYSELF ACCOUNTABLE TO YOU!

I RESPECTFULLY ASK FOR YOUR VOTE ON MAY 20TH, 2014!

★ VOTE CHRIS HANKINS FOR JAILER ★
RESTORING RESPECT, ACCOUNTABILITY AND SERVICE

THANKS FOR ALL YOUR SUPPORT,
Chris Hankins

WHS Archery helps out team in need, qualifies for World's

By Bryan Marshall
Staff Writer

The Williamstown Archery team scored high enough to qualify for the World Championship for the second consecutive year.

However, it was another feat by the students and parents at the National Archery In Schools Program Nationals in Louisville that may have been more impressive.

Of the more than 10,000 archers that participated this past weekend, three are lucky to be alive after a charter bus carrying a 13-person archery team from Lawton, Oklahoma to Louisville caught fire.

All 33 people on the bus escaped injury.

"All of a sudden our tire popped, and the rubber started to burn and it kept sparking. And the rubber started to burn and it lit the tire on fire," Joshua Santos told a Louisville TV station.

While most from the group returned home, three archers — Santos, Zachary Silky and Taylor Van Hoozer — went on to compete.

The problem?

The fiery crash destroyed all of the group's luggage, personal belongings and the school's archery equipment.

"To have our bows gone before nationals is frustrating because you have to shoot with a bow you've never experienced, and it's not the thing you've shot with all your season," Van Hoozer told the TV station.

Organizers provided equipment for the three archers who kept going to Louisville after the accident.

The students, who were acknowledged by organizers, just happened to be placed with Williamstown Independent Schools for their flight times.

"Our kids all went over and got in a really big huddle like a huddle hug," said coach Mike Walters. "It was awesome. I don't care if we would have came in last place. I would have been never more proud as I was of those kids for what they did. It just showed good character."

WHS senior Dylan Evans said parents overheard about the accident and decided to get some money together to help the Oklahoma team out.

The parents raised $221 to donate to the Oklahoma students on behalf of the team.

"The (Oklahoma team's) coach almost cried," Evans said. "He was so happy. We knew it wasn't a big debt because the equipment was so expensive, but it was the least we could do."

WHs junior Clint Moore became friends with one of the archers in need, Zachary Silky, but it wasn't until later that he found out about the accident.

"He was a good kid," Moore said about Zachary. "He honestly did not think a single thing about what happened. He was really focused. I thought that was cool. I did even know that happened to him until the end. I tried to get that off his mind and to focus on the task at hand. I was kind of joking around with him."

The Williamstown team took a group picture with the three archers from Oklahoma before the event ended.

Walters said the team is planning a benefit shoot later this year in which the proceeds will go to the archery team in Oklahoma.

"We know how much we love the sport," Evans said. "Had that happened to us I'm sure somebody would have helped us out. Archery is such a disciplined sport. We would do anything to help each other out."

"It means a lot to me," Moore said about qualifying for Worlds

again. "It has really driven me to try to get my score better."

As for the event itself, Williamstown came in 47th place as a team, with the top 12 archers scoring a combined total of 3,295.

That result was enough to qualify the team for Worlds for a second consecutive year.

The Worlds competition will take place July 11-13 in Madison, Wisconsin.

"It was very stressful this year," Walters said. "We knew we set a big standard last year for our team. It seems like we were on pins and needles every time we went to a tournament wondering if we were going to shoot well enough to go to the next one. Once we shot at state I knew we were going (to Worlds.)

We shot very high there. It's great to say we've done it two years in a row and that means last year was not a fluke. We got a good program going."

Moore led the pack with a team-high score of 290.

After Moore, the next top 11 archers in the 24-student team were Brennon Osborne (278), Tyler Nickell (278), Eden Jackson (278), Jacob Fryman (278), Brooklyn Wainscott (277), Anthony Boiko (276), Colton Pettit (275), Courtney Alexander (271), Kyler Harvey (268), Wyatt Oliver (264) and McKenna Brewer (262).

"I know we have got two months to work," Evans said. "We're going to put forth all of our effort."

THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES OF THE COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY

2014 Regular Session, House Resolution No. 267
Monday, April 14, 2014

Representative Brian Linder introduced the following resolution which was ordered to be printed.

A Resolution recognizing May 14, 2014, as Apraxia Awareness Day

Whereas, apraxia is a neurological condition that makes it difficult or impossible to execute certain motor movements, despite having the desire and the physical capacity to do so; and

Whereas, there are different types of apraxia, some affecting facial muscles and movements, some impeding tongue and mouth movements, and others affect arm and leg movements, and there are different forms of apraxia of speech, including acquired and developmental apraxia, as well as a milder form of apraxia known as dyspraxia; and

Whereas, although often poorly understood, experts believe that apraxia is caused by problems with the way specific parts of the brain that control certain muscle movements are working, whether an individual is born with this issue or it is caused by disability or damage; and

Whereas, scientists believe that signaling problems between the brain and the muscles used for speech are to blame for childhood apraxia of speech, and research has shown that acquired apraxia is caused by brain damage to the areas of the brain that control the ability to speak, which can be caused by head trauma, stroke, brain tumor, or neurological damage; and

Whereas, the majority of children with apraxia will experience significant improvement, if not complete recovery, with early diagnosis and appropriate treatment, which often includes speech therapy, occupational therapy, and physical therapy;

Now, therefore, Be it resolved by the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

Section 1. The House of Representatives hereby recognizes May 14, 2014, as Apraxia Awareness Day.

Section 2. The Clerk of the House of Representatives is directed to transmit a copy of this Resolution to Gail Baker, 110 S. Main Street, Williamstown, Kentucky 41097.

Are you going somewhere for Spring break? Goin on vacation soon? Pack a copy of the Grant County News. Snap a photo and send to: gcneditorial@grantky.com, send to P.O. Box 247 Williamstown or bring it in to the News office and see your photo in the paper.

ATLANTIS HOTEL - Earl Hughes went to the United Arab Emirates on his recent missions trip and took the Grant County News with him. This photo was taken on a sightseeing break. The real work was training and encouraging the Christian expats from India, Pakistan, Bangladesh and other countries who work in the United Arab Emirates, generally having to leave their families behind and send support home to them. The Grant County News lead story about snow make-up days was comical as Hughes was standing in front of the Atlantis Hotel on the Isle of the Palms where the temperature was approaching 100 degrees.

Legal Notices

NOTICE OF FINDING OF NO SIGNIFICANT IMPACT
The USDA, Rural Utilities Service has received an application for financial assistance from the City of Williamstown. The proposed project plans to construct improvements to their water treatment system that will include: Modifications to the raw water intake, installation of two new vertical turbine raw water pumps, construction of approximately 7,300 linear feet of 14-inch ductile iron and HDPE raw water main, construction of a new 4.0 million gallons per day (MGD) water treatment plant (WTP) at a new location. The new WTP will replace the existing WTP that was originally constructed in 1964. As required by the National Environmental Policy Act and agency regulations, the Rural Utilities Service prepared an Environmental Assessment of the proposal that assessed the potential environmental effects of the proposal and the effect of the proposal may have on historic properties. The Environmental Assessment was published on March 20, 2014, for a 30-day public comment period. Upon consideration of the applicant's proposal, federal and state environmental regulatory and natural resource agencies, and public input the agency has determined that the proposal will not have a significant effect on the human environment and for which an Environmental Impact Statement will not be prepared. The basis of this determination is that the proposed action conforms to state and local floodplain protection standards. In order to avoid or minimize any adverse impacts, the Rural Utilities Service will require the City to incorporate the following mitigation measures into the proposed project design: (1.) The Letter of Conditions shall require the applicant to comply with the requirements of the Department for Local Government letter dated May 30, 2013. (2.) The Letter of Conditions shall require the applicant to comply with the requirements of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife letter dated December 12, 2012. (3.) Line design and construction shall be accomplished in a way that will leave flood plains and farmland without affect after construction is complete. The Army Corps of Engineers Nationwide Permit No. 12 applies to all flood plain and wetlands utility line construction. (4.) Any excavation by the Contractor that uncovers an historical archaeological artifact shall be immediately reported to the Owner and a representative of the Agency. Construction shall be temporarily halted pending the notification process and further directions issued by the Agency after consultation with the State Historical Preservation Officer (SHPO). (5.) Design and construction shall be in compliance with all local, state and federal environmental statutes, regulations and executive orders applicable to the project. (6.) Best Management Practices shall be incorporated into the project design, construction and maintenance. Copies of the Environmental Assessment are available for review at the USDA Rural Development Office at 486 Helton Street, Williamstown, KY 41097. For further information contact Deborah Glass, Area Specialist at (859) 824-7171, extension 102. Federal law prohibits discrimination on the grounds of race, color, national origin, religion, age, handicap, and sex in this program. N5152C E5/22/14

NOTICE OF BID
The Grant County Fiscal Court will be accepting sealed bids in the Office of Darrell Link, Grant County Judge/Executive, Grant County Courthouse, 101 North Main Street, Williamstown, Kentucky 41097, until 4:00 p.m. on Friday, July 18, 2014, for Resurfacing of six (6) roads in Grant County i.e. Alexander Road, Harrison Ridge Road, Ragtown Road, Choctaw Drive, Arthur Road and Lemon Northcutt Road. Said bids will then be opened during the Fiscal Court meeting scheduled for Monday, July 21st, 2014 at 7:00 p.m. or as soon thereafter as possible. A copy of the Specifications for these Roads may be obtained in the Office of the County Judge/Executive during normal business hours. The Grant County Fiscal Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive informalities and make awards in a manner deemed to be the best interests of Grant County.

Vote Wayne Browning for Magistrate

Due to an extensive temporary work schedule, I have not been able to do much visiting and campaigning the way I should. I am running for the 2nd District Magistrate position. I feel like I'm the best candidate because of my strong work ethic. You have probably been promised a variety of things, but at this time the only promise I'll make is if elected I will hit the ground running and face each and every problem and deal with them to the best of my ability.

So stop all the frowning and vote for Browning!
